

1. What do you want your players to do and experience?
2. What resources and rules can you employ or create to support that?
3. What context and flavor can you provide to make the experience come to life?

---

Scenario Title:

Scope (circle one): short stories, standalone adventure, act of campaign

Premise: (what is happening / building? How matter? Stakes?)

Cause & Motivation: (driving force behind scenario)

Developments: (stages, phases, milestones, & twists) and Signs: (clear foreshadowing)

Glimmers: (lures & invitations off main path) and Flags: (clues telegraph glimmer)

Dramatic Question: (win or lose end state signal as question answered by play)

Cast: (Who involved? How? Want?) and Capabilities: (they bring to bear?)

Levers: (emphasis on tone, available resources, tools to create, need to build desired feels)

Constraints: (players NOT have? Interferes w/ easy or obvious path forward?)

Connection to Players: (connects hem to story)

Opportunities: (relationships to build, gloom to dispel, players learn, upgrades unlocked)